Tips on Travelling

How to Beat Jet Lag

You've preened, waxed, manicured, facialed, exfoliated, blow-dried and prepared for the business meeting or the rendezvous with your loved one and now you are embarking on the journey, having spent a fortune on the flight and the pre-long haul pampering packages. You seem prepared to take on the world or are you really?

The truth is that at the end of this beautifully planned journey ... your hair will look as though you've just been dragged through a hedge backwards, you have bitten your nails to the quick if you are a nervous flyer and you'll resemble "black-eyed Susie" with deep black rings under your eyes and puffy lids. My ... how first impressions count!

Jet Lag

Basically, you don't feel good, you feel that every inch of your body is falling apart and a little bit under the weather.

What It Really Is

Disrupted eating pattern, bowel pattern and conversational pattern. Everything is little chaotic for a while. You do not know what day it is or what it is back at home. Your normal regular clockwork is rather topsy-turvy at the moment.

Why Do We Get Jet Lag?

Our internal little tiny 24-hour clock just loses its grip on place and pace if we alter it by more than a few hours by passing through different time zones.

Solution

Don't drink the free bar dry just to pass time - there is a price to pay for your greediness. Too much of everything is never good for you. Drinking too much of alcoholic drink tends to dehydrate your body so much that you are most likely to disembark the plane smelling like a brewery.

Stick to plain water and drink lots and lots of it.

What If My Body Says It Is Daytime?

Set your watch to your destination time as you take off. Then start programming your body to it. On a night flight, take your shoes off, decline the meal and the movie and switch off.

Economy Class: Will It Be Worse?

Invest in a cheap pillow. Wedge it against a window and notice the difference. However, on really long flights it is often better to secure an aisle seat which is less problematic and easier to manoeuvre from if you need to visit the toilet, especially if you are drinking lots of water.

Recovery Time

Allow a day for each time zone.

What About My Hair & My Looks?

An hour before you land, freshen yourself up in the toilet. Wash up and pop some curlers into your hair. Don't be embarrassed. The likelihood of you seeing your neighbour again is millions to one and they are probably wishing they have the courage to do the same.

The HAWAII Islands

An uncompromising haven for sea sports and multi-cultural activities, Hawaii boasts of a place with great people who enjoys a 'hang loose' lifestyle. EDMOND NG explores its scenic spots.

Aloha! Welcome to Hawaii where Honolulu and the Waikiki beach are world famous in the island of Ohau.

In the land that dances to the tune of hanging loose, Hawaii boasts of a hot friendly environment that is made up of many races and different cultures. Among the islands where Hawaii reside, some of the most beautiful spots are found in the Kauai and Maui islands, where interesting sights include magnificent scenic views, canyons and sights of unspoiled natural beauty. People who enjoys exploring the wonders of nature will also like to visit the Big Islands of Hawaii where the place oversees a volcanic environment.

In the Ohau island, water sports such as surfing should not be missed. Glide through the waters of the beaches and be totally relaxed and stress-free! If you enjoy cultural activities, do not miss a night out in the Polynesians' restaurant and see the spectacular performance of tribal dances or if you prefer, enjoy great variety of different cultural food at the Waikiki Market.

Welcome to New York in the Universal Studios, Florida USA. This is one of the many amazing things you will see while you are in Florida, the place that is famous for the happiest place in the world in Orlando - Disney World, Universal Studio, Sea World and many more.

IN THE DESERT LAND OF NEVADA - LAS VEGAS

The desert wonderland for pleasure and seekers of riches. EDMOND NG explores the place where more weddings are held than anywhere else in the world.

Visit Nevada, the desert place that once was sand, but now is a place of pleasure for seekers of riches, a place where couples tie the knots, and the climbers pace the volcanic mountains in the panorama of scenic desert land, filled with the awesome cloud of mystery.

Just beyond the outskirts from Nevada, in Northern Arizona, stands the Grand Canyon, one of the wonders of the natural world, a sight not to be missed. Fly over by jet plane or helicopter and then go on a land tour to see the great canyon of America, which boast of volcanic mines, as well as being a national park and a forest reserve.

Not too far distant away is another place not to be missed, the Hoover Dam, one of the seven wonders of the engineering/modern world. It is the fact of its early architecture expertise in the 1930s that make its name of being a wonder of the world.

Nevada is also known for its conventional meetings throughout the year, as well as a place for riches seekers in the many casinos of Las Vegas.

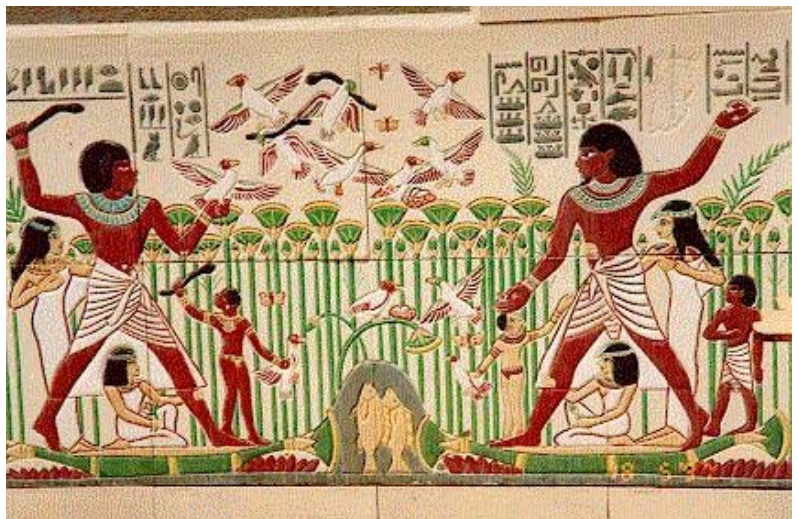

In Las Vegas, gambling is usual and wedding chapels are plentiful. Almost at every corner of the street, in every hotel, is a wedding chapel. It is said that Las Vegas is a paradise to tie the knots. Accommodation in Las Vegas is plentiful, and depending on preference and budget, you can stay at the Strip, or downtown.

Those on the Strip includes Aladdin Hotel, Desert Inn, Flamingo Hilton, Caesar's Palace, Bally's, Mirage, Treasure Island, Tropicana, MGM, Excalibur, Monte Carlo, Luxor, New York New York, and many others. For those who prefer downtown, Stratosphere or Hard Rock Hotel would be a good choice. Stratosphere house a landmark of Las Vegas as an observatory tower.

Usually, each hotel comes with its own theme of focus, such as Luxor with Egypt, Caesar's Palace with Rome, Mirage with jungle and volcanic waterfall, New York New York with New York. Coming up in 1998 is Bally's Paris theme. Each of these hotels would offer services, shops and merchandise of similar theme, which are usually obtainable only at the specific hotel shops. Take for example, you get to see flamingoes at the Flamingo Hilton, Caesar's animated statues at the Caesar's palace.

Do not miss walking through the streets of Fremont, at downtown Las Vegas. In the nights, the place is lighted up with a spectacular sight of laser performance on the ceiling. The residents of Las Vegas patronize these streets more than the Strip, and the prices of gifts and merchandise at the shops here offer better prices than those at the Strip.

With the magnificent lightings in the evenings, make sure you keep your camera handy at all times to take photographs of the surroundings. Don't forget to use films for taking night scenery. At Las Vegas, the city stays alive right through the night to the early morn!

How to Pack?

pre-packing tips ...

As far as possible, travel light. Always pack according to a checklist, made at least one week before your trip. It will speed up packing and let you know what you might be missing. Never pack the following items in your check-in luggage: money, expensive jewellery, traveller's cheques, travel documents, matches, cigarettes, lighters and other inflammable items.

secrets of successful packing ...

Pack clothes in plastic bags from the dry cleaners. This reduces wrinkles.

Pack larger items first then stuff rolled-up underwear, socks and other items around them.

Spray your favourite perfume on tissue paper and fold it together with the clothes. Clothes smell good, wrinkle less and the perfume can stay home.

Small items like cotton buds and vitamins should go in plastic sandwich bags. Pack lotions in small containers but do not fill them to the top as changes in aircraft pressure cause leaks.

If travelling with spouse, pack only one set of toiletry to avoid duplication.

Pack shoes in shoe covers to avoid soiling your clothes. A cheap way is by using old socks. If you are using plastic bags, leave them open as shoes need to breathe.

Have travel shirts cleaned and packed at the laundry. They are returned in plastic bags, inside a storage box, all ready to pack. Professionally pressed and folded, they stay crisp for the entire trip.

Mix family members' clothes in each suitcase; just in case one bag gets lost, you are ensured that at least everyone has a change of clothes.

Pack clothes in the order you plan to wear them.

Wear your heavier clothes while travelling instead of packing them.

Nest your packed luggage in a larger empty luggage. You will need that extra luggage especially if you plan to shop or to carry home pamphlets and papers from business trips.

packing your hand-luggage ...

If possible, try to travel with only hand luggage. This saves time on luggage reclaim and cuts down worries over lost, misplaced or damaged luggage.

If you have both check-in and hand luggage, pack as many items as possible in your hand luggage.

Pack items such as toiletries, books, business papers and things you need on board in a smaller tote to store under your seat to avoid the inconvenience of reaching for your hand luggage in the overhead compartment.

A panoramic landscape of a Canadian mountain valley. In the background, a large, rugged mountain peak is covered in snow and partially shrouded in mist. The middle ground features a wide, shallow river flowing through a valley, flanked by steep, rocky slopes. The slopes are densely covered with evergreen forests. FOR A 24-HOUR WORLD.
THE 24-HOUR WATCH.

Like all the best ideas, it's a simple one; and Rolex were the first to develop it. The Rolex GMT-Master has a conventional hour hand that goes round once every twelve hours, and another hand (the red one) that goes round once every 24 hours. Combined with a rotatable bezel, this means the wearer can tell at a glance what the time is in two different time-zones. This is, of course, an invaluable aid for airline pilots and other frequent flyers. But it could prove equally handy next time you pick up the phone to call your client on the other side of the world. After all, you wouldn't want to go spoiling his beauty sleep, would you?
